Self Management Skills Class 9 Notes help students develop essential life skills needed to manage their thoughts, emotions, and actions effectively. In today's fast-paced world, self-management is important for achieving personal goals, handling stress, and improving overall performance in academics and daily life.

Self-management, which is also referred to as 'selfcontrol' or 'self-regulation', is the ability to regulate one's emotions, thoughts, and behaviour effectively in different situations.

Session 1: Introduction to Self-Management

Self-management involves understanding yourself, understanding what your interests and abilities are, having a positive attitude and grooming yourself in order to develop self-confidence.

Self-management can also help in:

- developing good habits
- overcoming bad habits
- reaching your goals
- overcoming challenges and difficulties

Self-management skills include the following:

- Self-awareness – Knowing yourself as an individual – your values, likes, dislikes, strengths and weaknesses.
- Self-control – Ability to control your behaviour, discipline, etc.
- Self-confidence – Believing in yourself that you can do any task that is given to you and not scared of taking risks.
- Self-motivation – Doing tasks on your own without any external motivation.

- Positive thinking – Expressing certainty or affirmation even in tough situations.
- Problem solving – Understanding a problem and finding a solution using step-by-step method.
- Team work – Working together with people to accomplish shared goals.
- Time management – Achieving tasks on time and according the plan.
- Goal setting – Planning concrete goals to be accomplished within a set timeframe.
- Personal hygiene and grooming – Keeping oneself clean, healthy and smart.

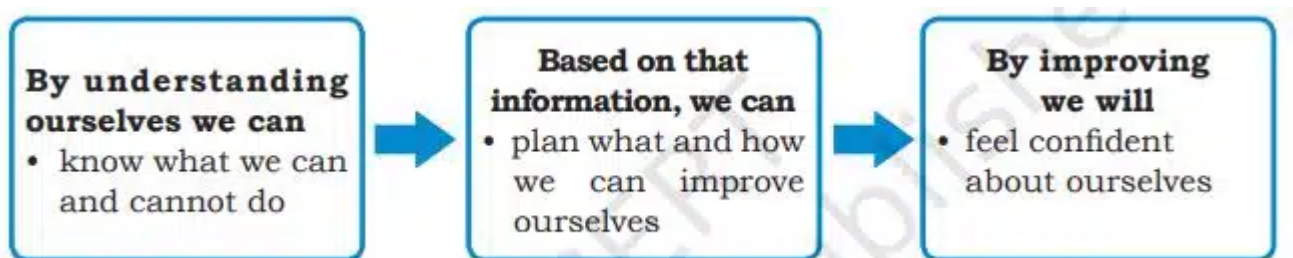

Session 2: Strength and Weakness Analysis

Knowing yourself: To find strengths and weaknesses

Strengths and weaknesses help to analyze yourself, knowing about yourself, what makes you happy, trying to find the area of improvement, what your opinions are, etc.

Strength and weakness analysis

- Strength – Strengths are what we do well and are good at. Everyone has some strengths.
- Weaknesses – Weaknesses, also known as ‘areas of improvement’ are what we do not do well and are not good at. Everyone has some weaknesses too.

Identifying strengths –

- Take time off to think about what you do well
- Think of anything that you are always good at
- Think about what others appreciate about you

Identifying weaknesses –

- Point out the areas where you struggle and what you find difficult to do
- Look at the feedback you receive from others
- Be open to feedback and accept your weaknesses without feeling small about it. Look at it as an area of improvement.

Difference between interests and abilities

- Interest – Interests are the things that we enjoy doing. Interests may include:
 - Activities you want to learn or would like to do in the future.
 - Activities you like to do at school and in your free time that make you happy.
 - Activities you are curious about or would do even if no one asked you to do it.
- Ability – Ability is an acquired or natural capacity that enables an individual to perform a particular job or task with considerable proficiency.

Session 3: Self-Confidence

What do you mean by Self-Confidence?

Self-confidence is a sense of trusting own's abilities and self. People who are confident believe that they can do anything given to them in any situation.

Examples of confidence and lack of confidence

Niraj had difficulty in speaking English. He, therefore, avoided talking to his classmates. He believed that he can learn English by joining English speaking classes and in few days he was able to speak english fluently.		Shalini, was preparing for her final board exams. She feared that she will not get good marks in English because of her poor memory. This made her nervous before the exam and she actually got poor marks in the exam.

Qualities of self-confident people

- Self-belief – they have a belief in themselves, and they can achieve anything.
- Hard Work – They are hard-working people to achieve their goal.
- Positive Attitude – They have a positive attitude towards their goal.
- Commitment – They are committed to achieving the goal in their life.

Building self-confidence

The three steps to building self-confidence are as follows –

 Step 1: Appreciate achievements & accept failures	For example, celebrate the achievements when the team wins a competition. Articulate learning when the team loses a competition.
 Step 2: Have a goal and take steps towards it	For example, if you have won bronze at an event, set the goal to win gold medal next time and take action for it.
 Step 3: Always look at the good side and be happy	For example if you have lost a match, celebrate the efforts of those team members who performed well. Talk to people who are confident and try to gain.

Given below are some factors that decrease selfconfidence.

1. When we think we cannot do a particular work.
2. When we keep thinking of our past mistakes and feel bad about it, instead of learning from them.

3. When we expect to be successful at the first attempt itself and do not try again.
4. When we are surrounded by people who have a negative attitude, which is reflected in their speech.

Session 4: Positive Thinking

What is Positive-Thinking?

Positive-thinking people have a positive attitude towards life and its challenges. A positive-thinking person looks at the good in things and works towards improving them rather than worrying and/or looking for the bad in things.

Positive thinking leads to good results for you like –

- Overcoming challenges,
- Making you do well or making you an energetic individual,
- Helping you get better at work, and
- Making you and people around you happy.

How to keep your thinking positive?

There are four simple steps to make a positive attitude in life. Let us understand this with the help of the abbreviation 'SMILE'.

- S – Start your day in a positive way
- M – Manage time to relax
- I – Imagine the best in any situation
- L – Learn to take feedback in a positive way
- E – Express gratitude

Session 5: Personal Hygiene

It is the habit or practice of keeping ourselves clean. Cleanliness helps us to maintain our health and well-being.

Personal hygiene is important because, it helps us

- stay healthy.
- create a good image of ourselves.
- avoid feeling ashamed in public due to our bad breadth, body odour, etc.

Three steps to personal hygiene –

CARE

- Keep your hair free of dandruff
- Rub oil/cream to take care of your skin
- Brush your teeth daily
- Change your toothbrush as soon as it de-shapes
- Cut your nails every week

WASH

- Wash your hands frequently
- Take bath every day
- Wash your clothes regularly
- Wash your hair at least every second day
- Wash your feet often

AVOID

- Blow your nose/cough into a handkerchief to avoid spreading germs
- Keep your feet dry and change your socks every day

Session 6: Grooming

What is Grooming?

Grooming is the process of making yourself look neat, tidy and smart. Dressing and grooming are important because they help us –

- make a good impression of ourselves
- look smart
- feel confident about ourselves

Guidelines for dressing and grooming

- Clothes should be clean, neat, and ironed
- Shoes should be clean and polished
- Change socks everyday and always wear clean socks
- Hair should be washed regularly to keep clean
- Simple hair styles and well combed hair gives a smart look
- Face looks clean if you shave regularly
- Moustache should be neatly trimmed
